

Workshop 1. HTML5 Tables.

Below are different wireframes laid out in tables. Analyze the layouts and model them in HTML5. You do not need to use advanced structures. You can generate each table in a separate html file or in a single file. You must create a new branch called tables and push to this new BRANCH.

Every time you finish a table, you must version it to GitHub with the table name and number. For example, if you finished the first table, the commit should say Table 1, and so on.
